Architectural Record, the official journal of The American Institute of Architects, publishes an annual issue called "Record Houses" featuring cutting edge architecture from around the world.

The Bailey Residence, designed by Mack Scogin and Merrill Elam is one of three homes featured in this issue from the United States.

Four additional houses from Peru, Japan, Brazil and Austria were selected for the honor of being published on this annual issue.

DEX products were used throughout the Bailey residence (kitchen, bath and fireplace) which was published in the April 2004 "Record Houses" issue.
